Headteacher: Christopher Dale

Dear Parents and Carers,

It has been another very busy week at St Nicholas. Over the course of the last week we have introduced to the children a new reward system. A reward card was given out to every child in the school with the aim that we expect everyone to behave well and all learners should be rewarded for good work and behaviour. If a poor choice is made and unacceptable behaviour displayed, then we will inform parents via a letter home. The aim of the new system is to reward children 'who regularly do the right thing.' All too often the children who are not following the school expectations are rewarded for behaviour which the majority follow throughout.

We have asked the children for their ideas for some of the rewards that should be on offer, we will of course start with small prizes but as children move through their reward card, we would like their achievement to be recognised.

We will continue to review this new system, but we are hopeful that it will be a continued improvement on learning behaviours already shown across the school.

Yours sincerely

Christopher Dale
Headteacher

Share Aware – Online safety advice for parents

In today's hyper-connected world, it's never been more important for parents to keep their tech-savvy kids safe online. Most parents agree that the benefits of the internet outweigh the potential risks, but many struggle to know where to turn for trusted sources of advice and support to keep their families safe online.

The NSPCC have launched the Share Aware campaign to help parents keep their children safe when socialising online. It provides simple advice to help parents untangle the web, understand how their children are interacting online and feel more confident discussing online safety. A copy of this leaflet is being sent home with this week's newsletter.
