

Spies and Espionage

Famous Spies

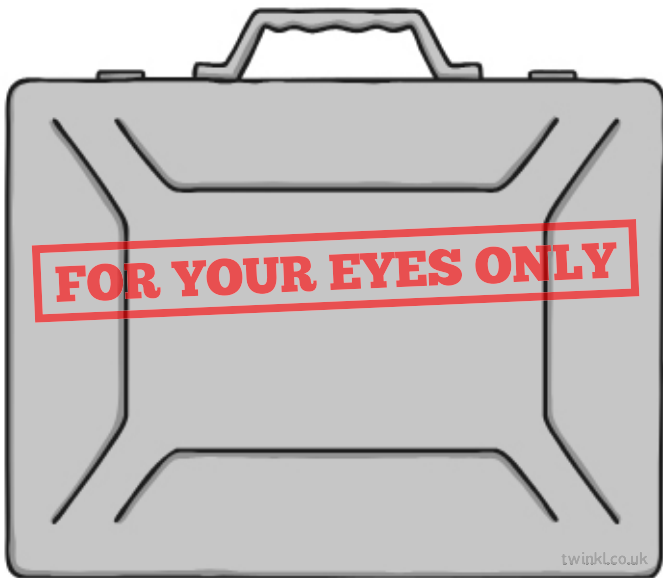

1. Start by sticking the bullet proof briefcases below onto card and then cut them out. Don't forget to score the tabs so your briefcases will open easily, then find an area of your project which you can use for this activity. Arrange the briefcases how you would like them and then stick the tabs to your project so the briefcases can be opened and closed. Once you have stuck them down press them flat to your project and draw around the briefcase with a black felt pen so you can see where the bottom of the case is. You could use a spot of sticky tack adhesive or tape to secure the lid.
2. Next cut out the document wallets ready to compile your dossiers.
3. Cut out the names, photographs and biographies of the famous spies and match them up. Take your dossier folders and stick the name of the spy on the front. Stick the appropriate biography and photo inside the dossier and then stick the back of the completed dossier to your project so that it is inside one of the briefcases. If you prefer you can use sticky tack or even velcro so that the dossier can be removed and reattached.
4. You now have files on some of the most notorious spies in history – if you wish to conduct more research you can print more briefcases and empty dossiers and add these to your project too.

stick this side down

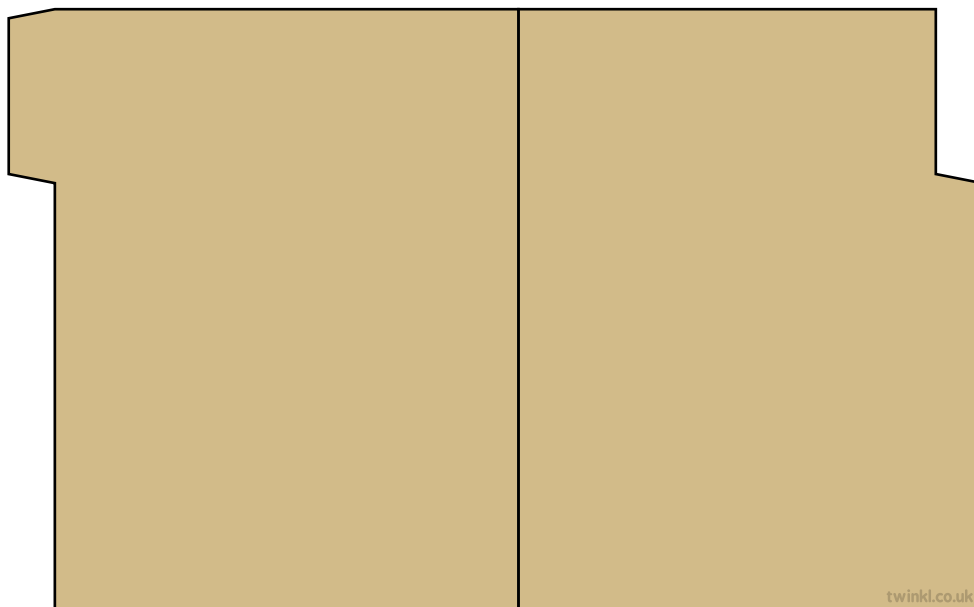

stick this side down

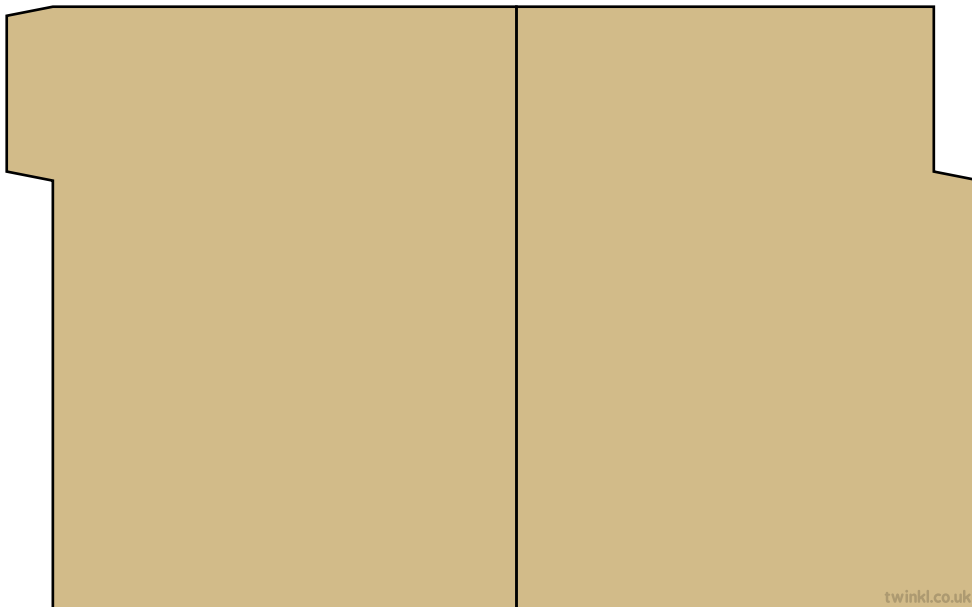

stick this side down

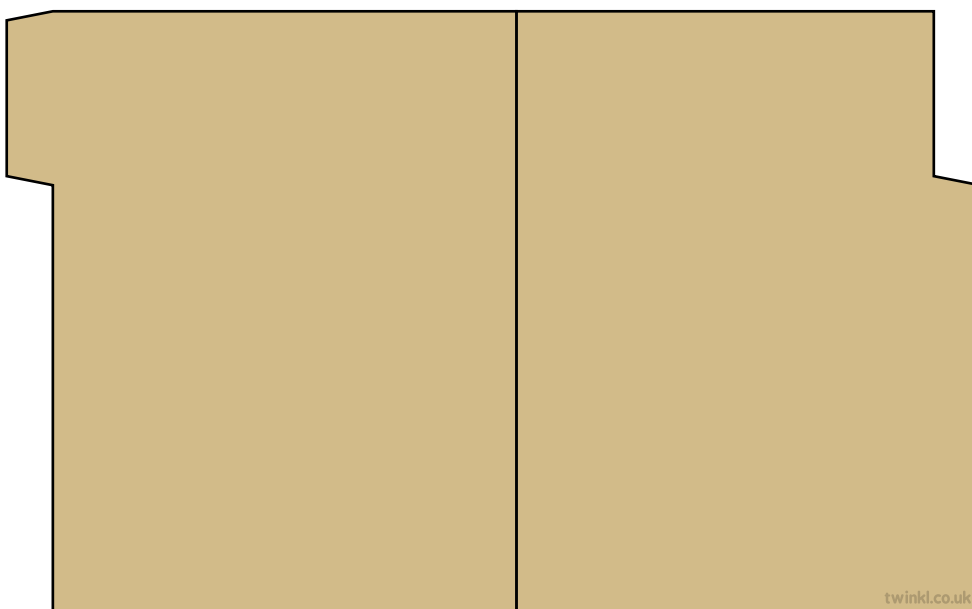

stick this side down

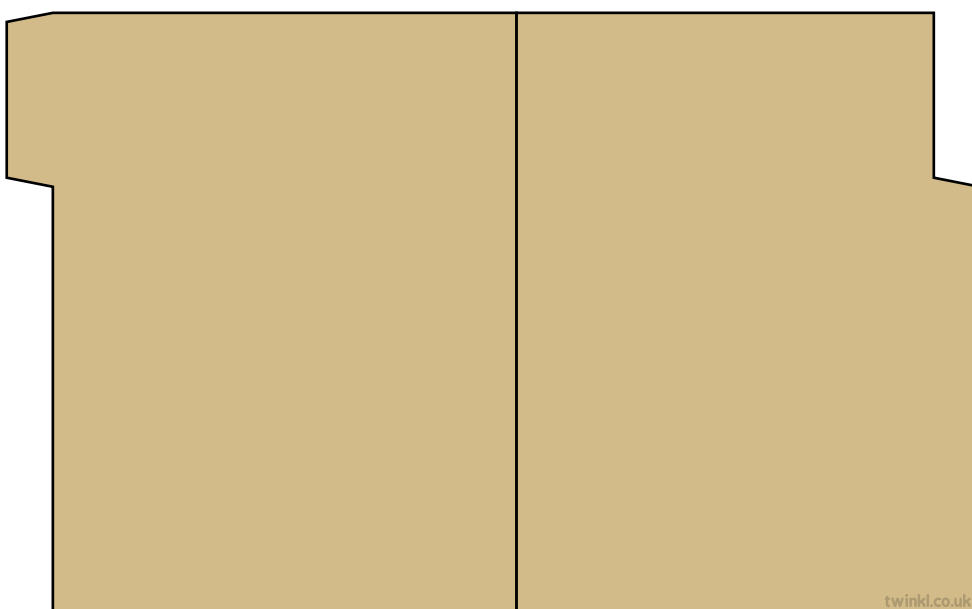

twinkl.co.uk

twinkl.co.uk

twinkl.co.uk

Known as the 'Ace of Spies' and believed to be in the inspiration for the character of James Bond. This spy was believed to have worked for at least 4 countries but false identities and secrecy make it difficult to know much about him. He was eventually executed by the Russians in 1925.

twinkl.co.uk

Mata Hari

twinkl.co.uk

Kim Philby

twinkl.co.uk

The Rosenbergs

twinkl.co.uk

Sydney Reilly

twinkl.co.uk

A professional dancer who spied for France during World War 1. This spy was executed by a firing squad when a message was intercepted that claimed the spy was working for Germany as a double agent.

twinkl.co.uk

One of the Cambridge 5, communists recruited from Cambridge University in the 1930's to spy for the Soviet Union. The information passed on by this spy is believed to have been responsible for the deaths of many agents.

twinkl.co.uk

American citizens executed in 1953 for passing information about the development of the atomic bomb to the Soviet Union. They were the first American civilians to be executed for treason during peacetime.

twinkl.co.uk

